THE NORTH CENTRAL CAMERA CLUB COUNCIL

Where Names Become Faces and Faces Become Friends

Volume XL Number 2

October 2004

PROGRAMS AVAILABLE FROM N4C

N4C has dozens of programs that can be borrowed. Some of the subjects are: Photographing Nature, Using Flash Effectively, Existing Light Photography, Effective Use of Lenses, Imaginative Use of Filters, Photographing People, Composition, Best of N4C (This is a collection of winners at the conventions).

Programs may be ordered from Program Aids Coordinator: Morris Gildermeister, 1314 W 16th Street, Hastings, MN 55033.

When ordering programs include a second choice of dates AND programs to ensure that material will be sent. Programs are scheduled on a first-come, first-served basis. Programs will be sent to the requesting individuals as education material shortly before the scheduled time. Return shipping instructions will be included with the programs upon receiving them.

The Tape Recorded Lecture/Slide Programs have a service charge of $6, which is applied to postage, cost of new programs, and repair of the current programs.

ANALYSIS SERVICE

A very interesting and personal program can be arranged by using the results of the analysis service as the basis for a camera club program. Contact the Analysis Service Coordinator to make arrangements. Francis Kingsbury, PO Box 570, Ponca, NE 68770.

Individuals may send in their work and have it analyzed and critiqued as to composition, technique, and impact. Helpful comments and suggestions will be made.

N4C PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

How I spent my summer vacation. Do you remember those assignments when we first went back to school, after having been off the whole summer? I think it was the teacher's way of saying: "OK, calm down. Let's get this over with and everyone back on track with school." And, oh yeah, we can use this as a learning tool - you can write it down, then you get to stand up in front of class and give a speech.

Well, I frankly prefer fall vacations. I think like many of you my favorite season is fall. I love the cool crispness of the air. There seems to be a heightened sense of energy. It is a time that I especially want to be outside at least for a week or two enjoying nature, photographing, and often times in one of our great national parks. The fall colors are in all their glory. The wild animals are at their peak having fattened up over the summer, grown new winter coats, and many are in their rut period looking quite photogenic.

I spent the first full week of October in the Eastern Sierras and Yosemite. I was on a photo tour with our own Ty Smedes. There were eight of us and we had a wonderful time and took lots and lots of images. It was a very congenial group that traveled well together. The Eastern Sierras is an area that I had never been to before and a really totally different side of California. It is a high desert area. Bishop, CA is the largest town with a population of 10,000.

We visited the Alabama Hills and spent time on Movie Road. Movie Road was fun with all of the strange looking rocks and arroyos. All you had to do was turn around and there were the Sierras, including Mt. Whitney, the highest mountain in the... continued on page 5...

N4C NEWS NOTES

EXHIBIT AND RECEPTION

Charles Peterson will be having an exhibition of his prints at the Sioux City Art Center November 1-31.

It will be an exhibit of 22 of his prints made on an Epson 1280 printer, all on Watercolor paper. He has been working on changing his digital photographs in Photoshop and a program called PhotoArtMaster into prints that have the feeling of a watercolor. He says, "I cannot paint a stick, and I have always loved the feeling of watercolor. Since I converted to a continuous inking system, I have been printing up a storm!"

The prints are sized between 16x16 and mostly 16x20 prints, with one rather long digitally assembled panoramic print that measures over three feet.

There will be an Artist's Reception on November 7 from 2 to 4 at the Art Center, located between Pierce and Nebraska Streets and between 2nd and 3rd. Charles says all N4Cers and others in the area are invited to the Reception.

2004 PSA CONFERENCE NEWS

At the 2004 PSA Conference held in Bloomington, MN, September 5-11, Vijay Karai, APSA, of the North Metro Photo Club, received a 'Meritorious Service Award' from the PSA Print Division.

In addition, Vijay exhibited a 100-print show, titled "Glimpses of India," which featured sections on wildlife, monuments, and temples, weddings, ancient architecture, as well as a large section on general life in the Indian continent.

Regina Kotowski Wortman of the Cedar Rapids Camera Club and long-time secretary for N4C writes: George had a very bad year. Illness and surgery and two bad falls plus complication of chemo and leukemia, George passed away on October 2, 2004. The funeral was on the 7th of Oct.

He was very ill the last two months which he spent in a nursing home. I'm slowly getting my feet back on the ground. Hoping for better days to come.

Our sympathy and prayers for Regina on the loss of her husband George Wortman.

FOR EXCELLENT PHOTOGRAPHY

At the January meeting of the Central Iowa Camera Club Danny Barker will lead a discussion about elements necessary for excellent photography.

This will be an opportunity to critique a number of images and discuss strengths and weaknesses. The club would also like to talk about judging guidelines. Often there is not time during contests to talk about the merits of individual entries. Members are encouraged to bring examples of slides to be used for the evening - Danny would like them several weeks ahead of the meeting, and he doesn't want them all to be perfect, but will be critiquing them.

TAKE YOUR BEST SHOT!

Marty DeWitt, SFCC editor, writes, "Autumn is one of my favorite times of the year. The cool crisp mornings, the brilliant fall colors, fields covered in dew, noisy migrations of ducks and geese, a crystal-clear midnight sky full of stars...and the list goes on. It is an awesome time to venture out with your camera to capture this unique season for your future enjoyment."

STORMY TRIP

On a trip to Mississippi and Louisiana Darlene Kutzler of the Huron Area Photography Club was greeted by Tropical Storm Matthew, which was not a hurricane, but only a depression. On a tour from Biloxi to New Orleans she and her husband boarded a bus and set out on a windswept rainy highway with bus driver Becca. (Later one of the five tour bus drivers told them the tour should have been canceled due to the weather.)

There were cars in ditches all along the route (hydroplaning). They had to cross a 5.5 mile bridge and the water they were crossing had 12-14 foot waves. Because of an accident with fatalities on a high-rise bridge, they were delayed in traffic for nearly two hours and their New Orleans tour guide got tired of waiting for them and left.

Their hotel was located on Biloxi Beach so Darlene got some photos of water birds and ships. She hiked on the beach and picked up shells for her grandsons.

Photo Information Simplicity

The most powerful images are often the most simple ones. Simplicity underscores beauty in nature in a way that busy compositions don't. Nature photographer Jim Zuckerman says, "When I'm in the field and I study land forms, macro details, or wildlife with a critical eye, my first thought is to find subjects that I can isolate from the whole. I always look for the simplest design elements possible."

Examples of simplicity in nature abound. Even when a complex set of elements is before you, the right lens and a sense of artistry can turn a compositional mess into a simple elegant statement. For example, a forest is anything but simple. With a macro lens, though, you can isolate the curvature of a leaf, water drops on lichen, a bark pattern, or an intimate group of mushrooms. Similarly, a herd of caribou can present a complex set of components, but with a long lens you can isolate only the graphic form of one of the animals on a ridge.

Simplicity involves two important aspects. First, the subject must consist of no more than a few graphic shapes. Second, the background must not be intrusive. Out-of-focus backgrounds and solid backgrounds work best.

Photographic simplicity usually involves only one subject and therefore, one point of focus. When all of a viewer's attention is centered on one thing, the impact of the subject is much greater than if other elements in the composition simultaneously compete for attention.

lower 48 states. Along Movie Road several serial westerns such as The Lone Ranger and Roy Rogers were filmed, also Star Trek, and various movies such as Gandhi, Worms, etc. While photographing we met a retired forest ranger that was quite informative about the area. Talking with a native of the region always makes your visit more interesting.

My favorite stop was at Bodie, the best-preserved ghost town in the U.S. and it is now a California State Park. Its elevation is approximately 8500 feet. At one time there were 10,000 people living and working in Bodie with 50 saloons and 10 brothels. There have been a couple of fires, but there are a large number of buildings still standing. At Bodie we had a magical blue sky, with big puffy white clouds, and golden light at the end of the day. If you love visiting ghost towns and you haven't been to Bodie you definitely need to put it on your To Visit list.

We photographed Mono Lake and the Tufa formations, Lundy Canyon which had great fall color of yellow and orange aspens mixed with the light green of the sage and dark green of the pines. We hit all the great spots for Yosemite pictures of Half Dome and El Capitan. And last on our tour was the Ancient Bristlecone Pines up at elevations of 9,000-11,000 feet. We had to get acclimated to the elevation before we went that high.

I love photographing mountains and all the great scenery. I, however, do not like traveling on those narrow mountain roads! I like best to be in the valley shooting up at the mountains. I just don't care for those 6-9% grades where the road is windy and curvy, seems like it is pretty much straight downhill (change that to down MOUNTAIN), I am on the outside edge and all I can see is blue sky. My saying by the end of the week was next time I may have to take a flatlander vacation.

All in all it was a great vacation! Even though the mountain roads at times were terrifying. I hope everyone has had the opportunity to get out in nature this fall and enjoy it. I hope that I have not bored you with my summer (fall) vacation story. Thank you for reading.
